

International Students: Travel Restrictions and Preparing to Enter Canada Last updated: July 8, 2024

Students are responsible for their own travel arrangements and awareness of travel restrictions

Effective October 1, 2022, the Government of Canada removed all COVID-19 entry restrictions, as well as testing, quarantine, and isolation requirements for anyone entering Canada. This includes the removal of the mandatory use of ArriveCAN (it is now optional) and proof of vaccination.

Transport Canada has also removed requirements to undergo health checks and wear masks on planes and trains, effective October 1, 2022.

Review the requirements to enter Canada as a study permit holder at this link: Study permit: Prepare for arrival - Canada.ca.

As you begin making plans to travel to Canada, review this list carefully. Please note that there may be additional steps to follow. Consider your personal circumstances and any other preparations you may need to complete.

1. Download the ArriveCAN App to prepare for your arrival to Canada. You can submit an advance about your final destination. This is where you will be issued your study permit (if you do not already have it). Once you receive your study permit, review it carefully to ensure there are no spelling errors and that it includes work authorization statements.
